PART II.—JURISDICTION.

Jurisdiction of the court in divorce, judicial separation and nullity.

4.(1) The court shall have jurisdiction to entertain proceedings for divorce or judicial separation if—

- (a) the court has jurisdiction under the Council Regulation; or
- (b) no court of a Member State has jurisdiction under the Council Regulation and either of the parties to the marriage is domiciled in Gibraltar on the date when the proceedings are begun.

(2) The court shall have jurisdiction to entertain proceedings for nullity or marriage if—

- (a) the court has jurisdiction under the Council Regulation; or
- (b) no court of a Member State has jurisdiction under the Council Regulation and either of the parties to the marriage—
 - (i) is domiciled in Gibraltar on the date when the proceedings are begun, or

- (ii) died before that date and either was at death domiciled in Gibraltar or had been habitually resident in Gibraltar throughout the period of one year ending with the date of death.

(3) In this section and in other relevant provisions of this Act–

“Council Regulation” means Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27th November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and matters of parental responsibility;

“Member State” means all Member States with the exception of Denmark and a reference to Member State shall be deemed to include Gibraltar.

Domicile.

5.(1) Subject to subsection (2), the domicile of a married woman as at any time after the coming into force of this section shall, instead of being the same as her husband’s by virtue only of marriage, be ascertained by reference to the same factors as in the case of any other individual capable of having an independent domicile.

(2) Where immediately before this section came into force a woman was married and then had her husband’s domicile by dependence, she is to be treated as retaining that domicile (as a domicile of choice, if it is not also her domicile of origin) unless and until it is changed by acquisition or revival of another domicile either on or after the coming into force of this section.

Age at which independent domicile can be acquired.

5A. The time at which a person first becomes capable of having an independent domicile shall be when he attains the age of sixteen or marries under that age.

Dependent domicile of child not living with his father.

5B.(1) Where the father and mother of a person incapable of having an independent domicile are alive but living apart, his domicile is that of his mother if he has his home with the mother and has no home with the father.

(2) Where a person incapable of having an independent domicile had the domicile of his mother by virtue of subsection (1) but she is dead, his domicile is that which she last had, if he has not since had a home with his father.

(3) Nothing in this section prejudices any existing rule of law as to the cases in which a person's domicile is regarded as being, by dependence, that of his mother.

(4) In this section, in its application to a person who has been adopted, references to his father and his mother shall be construed as references to his adoptive father and mother.

Jurisdiction in presumption of death.

6. The court shall have jurisdiction to entertain proceedings for death to be presumed and a marriage to be dissolved if (and only if) the petitioner—

- (a) is domiciled in Gibraltar on the date when the proceedings are begun; or
- (b) was habitually resident in Gibraltar throughout the period of one year ending with that date.

Jurisdiction in other proceedings.

7. The court shall, at any time when proceedings are pending in respect of which it has jurisdiction by virtue of section 4, 5 or 6 (or of this section) also have jurisdiction to entertain other proceedings in respect of the same marriage for divorce, judicial separation, or nullity of marriage notwithstanding that the jurisdiction would not be exercisable under section 4, 5 or 6.

Concurrent proceedings.

8. The Schedule to this Act shall have effect as to the cases for which matrimonial proceedings in Gibraltar may be stayed by the court where there are concurrent proceedings elsewhere in respect of the same marriage, but nothing in the Schedule prejudices any power to stay proceedings which is exercisable by the court apart from the Schedule.

PART III.—PRACTICE, POWERS AND EVIDENCE.

Practice and procedure.

9. The jurisdiction vested in the court by this Act shall so far as regards procedure, practice and powers of the court be exercised in the manner provided by this Act and by any subsidiary legislation made hereunder; and where no special provision is contained in this Act or in any such subsidiary legislation with reference thereto, any such jurisdiction shall be exercised in accordance with the practice, procedure and powers for the time being in force in the High Court of Justice in England with reference to matrimonial proceedings.

Parties to proceedings involving adultery.

10.(1) Where in a petition for divorce or judicial separation, or in any other pleading praying for either form of relief, one party to a marriage alleges that the other has committed adultery, he or she shall make the person alleged to have committed adultery with the other party to the marriage a party to the proceedings, unless excused by the court on special grounds from doing so.

(2) Rules may, either generally or in such cases as may be prescribed by the rules, exclude the application of subsection (1) where the person alleged to have committed adultery with the other party to the marriage is not named in the petition or other pleading.

(3) Where in pursuance of subsection (1), a person is made a party to proceedings for divorce or judicial separation, the court may, if after the close of the evidence on the part of the person making the allegation of adultery it is of opinion that there is not sufficient evidence against the person so made a party, dismiss him or her from the suit.

(4) Rules may make provision, in cases not falling within subsection (1) above, with respect to the joinder as parties to proceedings under this Act of persons involved in allegations of adultery or other improper conduct made in those proceedings, and with respect to the dismissal from such proceedings of any parties so joined; and rules made by virtue of this subsection may make different provision for different cases.

(5) In every case in which adultery with any party to a suit is alleged against any person not made a party to the suit or in which the court considers, in the interest of any person not already a party to the suit, that that person should be made a party to the suit, the court may if it thinks fit allow that person to intervene upon such terms, if any, as the court thinks fit.

Power to treat desertion as continuing during incapacity.

11. For the purposes of any petition for divorce or judicial separation the court may treat a period of desertion as having continued at a time when the deserting party was incapable of continuing the necessary intention, if the evidence before the court is such that, had he not been so incapable, the court would have inferred that that intention continued at that time.

Evidence.

12.(1) Notwithstanding any other law, the evidence of a husband or wife shall be admissible in any proceedings to prove that marital intercourse did or did not take place between them during any period.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in this section or any other law, a husband or wife shall not be compellable in any proceedings to give evidence of such matters.

(3) The parties to any proceedings instituted in respect of which adultery is a material matter and the husbands and wives of the parties shall be competent to give evidence in the proceedings, but no witness in any such proceedings, whether a party thereto or not, shall be liable to be asked or be bound to answer any question tending to show that he or she has committed adultery unless he or she has already given evidence in the same proceedings in disproof of the alleged adultery.

(4) In any proceedings for nullity, evidence on the question of sexual capacity shall be heard in camera unless in any case the Chief Justice is satisfied that in the interests of justice any such evidence ought to be heard in open court.

PART IV.—ENCOURAGEMENT OF RECONCILIATION.

Duty of legal advisers.

13. Where any person, in contemplation of filing a petition for divorce or judicial separation, consults a barrister or a solicitor, it shall be the duty of that barrister or solicitor, before advising the person to file such a petition—

- (a) to advise the person specifically to consider the possibility of a reconciliation with his or her spouse; and
- (b) where rules designate conciliators, and their names and addresses, to give to the person the names and addresses of not fewer than two conciliators.

Statement by petitioner.

14. Before any proceedings are commenced for divorce or judicial separation, the person who is to be the petitioner shall state in writing, in such form (if any) as may be prescribed, whether or not he or she wishes to see a conciliator.

Powers and duties of court in respect of reconciliation.

15.(1) In any proceedings for divorce or judicial separation, the court shall at all stages during the proceedings have regard to the reasonable possibility of a reconciliation between the parties to the marriage.

(2) If at any stage during any proceedings for divorce or judicial separation, it appears to the court that there is a reasonable possibility of a reconciliation between the parties to the marriage, the court may adjourn the proceedings for such period as it may think fit, to allow for attempts to be made to effect such a reconciliation.

(3) The power of adjournment under sub-section (2) is additional to any other powers of the court to adjourn proceedings.

PART V. –DIVORCE, NULLITY AND DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE ON PRESUMPTION OF DEATH.

Divorce

Divorce on breakdown of marriage.

16.(1) Subject to section 18, a petition for divorce may be presented to the court by either party to a marriage on the ground that the marriage has broken down irretrievably.

(2) On a petition for divorce, the court shall not hold the marriage to have broken down irretrievably unless the petitioner satisfies the court of one or more of the following facts, that is to say–

- (a) that the respondent has committed adultery, rape or bestiality, or, where the marriage is between a man and a woman, the respondent is homosexual; and in any such case the petitioner finds it intolerable to live with the respondent;
- (b) that the respondent has behaved in such a way that the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with the respondent;
- (c) that the respondent has deserted the petitioner for a continuous period of at least two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition;
- (d) that the parties to the marriage have lived apart for a continuous period of at least two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition (hereafter in this Act referred to as two years separation) and the respondent consents to a decree being granted; or

- (e) that the parties to the marriage have lived apart for a continuous period of at least three years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition (hereafter in this Act referred to as three years separation”).

(3) For the purposes of paragraph (b) of subsection (2), the court shall not hold that the respondent has behaved in such a way that the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with the respondent unless the petitioner satisfies the court that the behaviour is of one or more of the following kinds, namely–

- (a) conduct by the respondent that involves actual and reasonably substantial physical or mental injury to the petitioner or to any child of the marriage or of either party, or the reasonable apprehension by the petitioner or any such child of such injury;
- (b) constructive desertion by the respondent of the petitioner; or
- (c) unsoundness of mind or other mental disorder on the part of the respondent, where the condition is likely to be incurable and either–
 - (i) the condition has existed for at least 3 years; or
 - (ii) in exceptional circumstances, the condition has existed for a shorter period than 3 years, and the effects of the behaviour of the respondent are directed towards the petitioner or towards any child of the marriage or of either party.

(4) On a petition for divorce, it shall be the duty of the court to inquire, so far as it reasonably can, into the facts alleged by the petitioner and into any facts alleged by the respondent but the court may in its discretion refuse to hear live evidence and decide the petition on the basis of documentary evidence before it.

(5) If the court is satisfied on the evidence of any such fact as is specified in subsection (2), then, unless it is satisfied on all the evidence that the marriage has not broken down irretrievably, it shall, subject to subsection (4) and to sections 26 and 49, grant a decree of divorce.

Supplemental provisions as to facts raising presumption of breakdown.

17.(1) One party to a marriage shall not be entitled to rely for the purposes of section 16(2) (a) on the conduct of the other party of a kind specified in that provision committed by the other if, after it became known to him or her that the other had committed that conduct, the parties have lived with each other for a period exceeding, or periods together exceeding, 6 months.

(2) Where the parties to a marriage have lived with each other after it had become known to one party that the other had committed the conduct in section 16(2) (a) to which subsection (1) refers, but subsection (1) does not apply, in any proceedings for divorce in which the petitioner relies on that conduct the fact that the parties have lived with each other after that time shall be disregarded in determining for the purposes of section 16(2) (a) whether the petitioner finds it intolerable to live with the respondent.

(3) Where in any proceedings for divorce, the petitioner alleges that the respondent has behaved in such a way that the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with him or her, but the parties to the marriage have lived with each other for a period or periods after the date of the occurrence of the final incident relied on by the petitioner and held by the court to support his or her allegation, that fact shall be disregarded in determining for the purposes of section 16(2) (b) whether the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with the respondent, if the length of that period or of those periods together was 6 months or less.

(4) For the purposes of section 16(2) (c), the court may treat a period of desertion as having continued at a time when the deserting party was incapable of continuing the necessary intention, if the evidence before the court is such that, had that party not been so incapable, the court would have inferred that his or her desertion continued at that time.

(5) In considering for the purpose of section 16(2) whether the period for which the respondent has deserted the petitioner or the period for which the parties to a marriage have lived apart has been continuous, no account shall be taken of any one period (not exceeding 6 months) or of any two or more periods (not exceeding 6 months in all) during which the parties resumed living with each other, but no period during which the parties lived with each other shall count as part of the period of desertion or of the period for which the parties to the marriage lived apart, as the case may be.

(6) For the purposes of section 16(2) (d) and (e) and of this section, a husband and wife shall be treated as living apart unless they are living with each other in the same household, and references in this section to the parties to a marriage living with each other shall be construed as references to their living with each other in the same household.

(6A) For the purposes of subsection (6) in relation to a marriage of a same sex couple, a reference to a husband and wife shall be read as a reference to a husband and a husband or a wife and a wife, as applicable, and parties to a marriage shall be construed accordingly.

(7) Provision may be made by rules of court for the purpose of ensuring that where in pursuance of section 16(2) (d) the petitioner alleges that the respondent consents to a decree being granted, the respondent has been given such information as will enable him or her to understand the consequences of his or her consenting to a decree being granted and the steps which he or she must take to indicate that he or she consents to the grant of a decree.

Refusal of decree in three years separation cases on the ground of grave hardship to respondent.

17A.(1) The respondent to a petition for divorce in which the petitioner alleges three years' separation may oppose the grant of a decree on the ground that the dissolution of the marriage will result in grave financial or other hardship to him and that it would in all the circumstances be wrong to dissolve the marriage.

(2) Where the grant of a decree is opposed by virtue of this section, then if—

- (a) the court finds that the petitioner is entitled to rely in support of his petition on the fact of three years' separation and makes no such finding as to any other fact mentioned in section 16(2); and
- (b) apart from this section the court would grant a decree on the petition, the court shall consider all the circumstances, including the conduct of the parties to the marriage and the interests of those parties and of any children or other persons concerned, and if the court is of opinion that the dissolution of the marriage will result in grave financial or other hardship to the respondent and that it would in all the circumstances be wrong to dissolve the marriage, it shall dismiss the petition.

(3) For the purposes of this section “hardship” shall include the loss of the chance of acquiring any benefit which the respondent might acquire if the marriage were not dissolved.

Restrictions on petitions for divorce within three years of marriage.

18.(1) Subject to subsection (2), no petition for divorce shall be presented to the court before the expiration of the period of three years from the date of the marriage (in this section called 'the specified period').

(2) The court may, on an application made to it, allow the presentation of the petition within the specified period—

- (a) on the ground that the case is one of exceptional hardship suffered by the petitioner or of exceptional depravity on the part of the respondent; or
- (b) in any case where the petitioner was under the age of 16 years at the date of the marriage—but in determining any application on the ground in paragraph (a), the court shall have regard to the interests of any child of the family, and in determining any application under this subsection it shall in every case have regard to the question whether there is a reasonable probability of a reconciliation of the parties during the specified period.

(3) If it appears to the court, at the hearing of a petition for divorce presented pursuant to leave granted under subsection (2), that the leave was obtained by the petitioner by any misrepresentation or concealment of the nature of the case the court may—

- (a) dismiss the petition, without prejudice to any petition that may be brought after the expiration of the specified period on the same facts, or substantially the same facts, as those proved in support of the dismissed petition; or
- (b) if it grants the decree, direct that no application to make the decree absolute shall be made during the specified period.

(4) Nothing in this section shall prohibit the presentation of a petition based on matters that have occurred before the expiration of the specified period.

Relief for respondent in divorce proceedings.

19. If in any proceedings for divorce, the respondent alleges and proves any such fact as is mentioned in section 16(2) (treating the respondent as the petitioner and the petitioner as the respondent for the purposes of that subsection) the court may give to the respondent the relief to which the respondent would have been entitled if the respondent had presented a petition seeking that relief.

Consideration by the court of certain agreements or arrangements.

19A. Provision may be made by rules of court for enabling the parties to a marriage, or either of them, on application made either before or after the presentation of a petition for divorce, to refer to the court any agreement or arrangement made or proposed to be made between them, being an agreement or arrangement which relates to, arises out of, or is connected with, the proceedings for divorce which are contemplated or, as the case may be, have begun, and for enabling the court to express an opinion, should it think it is desirable to do so, as to the reasonableness of the agreement or arrangement and to give such directions, if any, in the matter as it thinks fit.

Divorce proceedings after grant of judicial separation or other relief.

20.(1) A person shall not be prevented from presenting a petition for divorce, or the court from pronouncing a decree of divorce, by reason only that the petitioner has at any time been granted a judicial separation or an order under the Maintenance Act upon the same or substantially the same facts as those proved in support of the petition for divorce.

(2) On any such petition for divorce, the court may treat the decree of judicial separation or the said order as sufficient proof of the adultery, desertion or other fact by reference to which it was granted, but the court shall not pronounce a decree of divorce without receiving evidence from the petitioner but the court shall not be bound to hear live evidence in the case.

21. Repealed.

Re-marriage of divorced persons.

25A.(1) A marriage shall be voidable on any of the following grounds that—

- (a) the marriage has not been consummated owing to the incapacity of either party to consummate it;
- (b) the marriage has not been consummated owing to the wilful refusal of the respondent to consummate it;
- (c) either party to the marriage did not validly consent to it, whether in consequence of duress, mistake, unsoundness of mind or otherwise;
- (d) at the time of the marriage either party, though capable of giving a valid consent, was suffering, whether continuously or

- (e) at the time of the marriage the respondent was suffering from venereal disease in a communicable form; or

Bars to relief where marriage is voidable.

25B.(1) The court shall not grant a decree of nullity on the ground that a marriage is voidable if the respondent satisfies the court that—

- (a) the petitioner, with knowledge that it was open to him to have the marriage avoided, so conducted himself in relation to the respondent as to lead the respondent reasonably to believe that he would not seek to do so; and
- (b) it would be unjust to the respondent to grant the decree.

(2) Without prejudice to subsection (1), the court shall not grant a decree of nullity by virtue of section 25A on the grounds mentioned in paragraph (c), (d), (e) or (f) of that section unless—

(3) Without prejudice to subsections (1) and (2), the court shall not grant a decree of nullity by virtue of section 25A on the grounds mentioned in paragraph (e) or (f) of that section unless it is satisfied that the petitioner was at the time of the marriage ignorant of the facts alleged.

(4) In the case of proceedings for the grant of a decree of nullity by virtue of section 25A on the grounds mentioned in paragraph (c), (d), (e) or (f) of that section, the court may, on an application made to it, grant leave for the institution of proceedings after the expiration of the period of three years from the date of the marriage if the court—

- (a) is satisfied that the petitioner has at some time during that period suffered from mental disorder within the meaning of section 1(3) of the Mental Health Act 2016; and
- (b) considers that in all the circumstances of the case it would be just to grant leave for the institution of proceedings.

(5) An application for leave under subsection (4) may be made after the expiration of the period of three years from the date of the marriage.

Proceedings after decree nisi in the case of a decree of nullity of marriage: general powers of court.

- (a) notwithstanding anything in section 26(1), but subject to section 49, make the decree absolute; or
- (b) rescind the decree;
- (c) require further inquiry; or
- (d) otherwise deal with the case as it thinks fit.

(2) Where a decree of nullity of marriage has been granted under this Act and no application for it to be made absolute has been made by the party to whom it was granted, then, at any time after the expiration of three months from the earliest date on which that party could have made such an application, the party against whom it was granted may make an application to the court, and on that application the court may exercise any of the powers mentioned in paragraphs (a) to (d) of subsection (1).

Effect of decree of nullity in case of voidable marriage.

Marriages governed by foreign law or celebrated abroad under Gibraltar law.

25E.(1) Where, apart from this Act, any matter affecting the validity of a marriage would fall to be determined, in accordance with the rules of private international law, by reference to the law of a country outside Gibraltar, nothing in section 25, 25A or 25B(1) shall—

- (a) preclude the determination of that matter as aforesaid; or
- (b) require the application to the marriage of the grounds or bar there mentioned except so far as applicable in accordance with those rules.

(2) In the case of a marriage which has taken place outside Gibraltar and purports to be a marriage under common law, section 25 is without prejudice to any ground on which the marriage may be void by virtue of the rules governing the celebration of marriages outside Gibraltar under common law.

26.(1) Every decree for a divorce or for nullity shall, in the first instance, be a decree nisi not to be made absolute until after the expiration of six weeks from the pronouncing thereof:

Provided that the court may by special order in any case fix a shorter period.

(2) Where a decree of divorce has been granted but not made absolute, then, without prejudice to section 28, any person (excluding a party to the proceedings other than the Queen's Proctor) may show cause why the decree should not be made absolute by reason of material facts not having been brought before the court; and in such a case the court may—

Proceedings after decree nisi: special protection for respondent in separation cases.

26A.(1) Where in any case the court has granted a decree of divorce on the basis of a finding that the petitioner was entitled to rely in support of his petition on the fact of two years' separation coupled with the respondent's consent to a decree being granted and has made no such finding as to any other fact mentioned in section 16(2), the court may, on an application made by the respondent at any time before the decree is made absolute, rescind the decree if it is satisfied that the petitioner misled the respondent (whether intentionally or unintentionally) about any matter which the respondent took into account in deciding to give his consent.

(2) The following provisions of this section apply where—

- (a) the respondent to a petition for divorce in which the petitioner alleged two years' or three years' separation coupled, in the former case, with the respondent's consent to a decree being granted, has applied to the court for consideration under subsection (3) of his financial position after the divorce; and
- (b) the court has granted a decree on the petition on the basis of a finding that the petitioner was entitled to rely in support of his petition on the fact of two years' or three years' separation, as the case may be, and has made no such finding as to any other fact mentioned in section 16(2).

(3) The court hearing an application by the respondent under subsection (2) shall consider all the circumstances, including the age, health, conduct, earning capacity, financial resources and financial obligations of each of the parties, and the financial position of the respondent as, having regard to the divorce, it is likely to be after the death of the petitioner should the petitioner die first; and, subject to subsection (4), the court shall not make the decree absolute unless it is satisfied—

- (a) that the petitioner should not be required to make any financial provision for the respondent; or
- (b) that the financial provision made by the petitioner for the respondent is reasonable and fair or the best that can be made in the circumstances.

(4) The court may, if it thinks fit, make the decree absolute notwithstanding the requirements of subsection (3) if—

- (a) it appears that there are circumstances making it desirable that the decree should be made absolute without delay; and
- (b) the court has obtained a satisfactory undertaking from the petitioner that he will make such financial provision for the respondent as the court may approve.

Presumption of death

Proceedings for decree of presumption of death and dissolution of marriage.

27.(1) Any married person who alleges that reasonable grounds exist for supposing that the other party to the marriage is dead may present a petition to the court to have it presumed that the other party is dead and to have the marriage dissolved, and the court, if satisfied that such reasonable grounds exist, may make a decree of presumption of death and of dissolution of the marriage.

(2) In any such proceedings the fact that for a period of seven years or upwards the other party to the marriage has been continually absent from the petitioner, and the petitioner has no reason to believe that the other party has been living within that time, shall be evidence that he or she is dead until the contrary is proved.

(3) Sections 22, 26(1), 28 and 29 shall apply to a petition and a decree under this section as they apply to a petition for divorce and a decree of divorce respectively.

- (b) any person may at any time during the progress of the proceedings or before the decree nisi is made absolute give information to the Queen's Proctor of any matter material to the due decision of the case, and the Queen's Proctor may thereupon take such steps as he considers necessary or expedient; and

- (c) if in consequence of any such information or otherwise the Queen's Proctor suspects that any parties to the petition are or have been acting in collusion for the purpose of obtaining a decree contrary to the justice of the case, he may, after obtaining the leave of the court, intervene and retain counsel and subpoena witnesses to prove the alleged collusion.

Costs where Queen's Proctor intervenes or shows cause.

29. Where the Queen's Proctor intervenes or shows cause against a decree nisi in any proceedings for divorce or for nullity, the court may make such order as to the payment by other parties to the proceedings of the costs incurred by him in so doing or as to the payment by him of any costs incurred by any of the parties by reason of his so doing, as may seem just.

PART VI.—JUDICIAL SEPARATION.

(2) deleted

(3) On a petition for judicial separation it shall be the duty of the court to inquire, so far as it reasonably can, into the fact alleged by the petitioner and into any facts alleged by the respondent, but the court shall not be concerned to consider whether the marriage has broken down irretrievably, and if it is satisfied on the evidence of any such fact as is mentioned in section 16(2) it shall, subject to section 49, grant a decree of judicial separation.

(4) Sections 15 and 19A shall apply for the purpose of encouraging the reconciliation of parties to proceedings for judicial separation and of enabling the parties to a marriage to refer to the court for its opinion an agreement or arrangement relevant to actual or contemplated proceedings for judicial separation, as they apply in relation to proceedings for divorce.

Effects of judicial separation.

31.(1) Where the court grants a decree of judicial separation, it shall no longer be obligatory for the petitioner to cohabit with the respondent.

(3) In any case where the decree for judicial separation is obtained by the wife, any property to which she is entitled for an estate in remainder or reversion shall be deemed to be property to which subsection (2) applies.

(4) The court may, on the application by petition of the husband or wife against whom a decree for judicial separation has been made, and on being satisfied that the allegations contained in the petition are true, reverse the decree at any time after its making, on the ground that it was obtained in the absence of the person making the application, or, if desertion was the ground of the decree, that there was reasonable cause for the alleged desertion.

(19) Where—

- (a) a periodical payments or secured periodical payments order in favour of more than one child ("the order") is in force; and
- (b) the order requires payments specified in it to be made to or for the benefit of more than one child without apportioning those payments between them, the court may, in exercise of its powers under this section to vary or discharge the order, direct that the variation or discharge shall take effect from the date on which the assessment took effect or any later date.

Orders for repayment in certain cases of sums paid after cessation of order by reason of remarriage.

43B.(1) Where—

- (a) a periodical payments or secured periodical payments order in favour of a party to a marriage, hereafter in this section referred to as "a payments order", has ceased to have effect by reason of the remarriage of that party; and
- (b) the person liable to make payments under the order or his or her personal representatives made payments in accordance with it in respect of a period after the date of the remarriage in the mistaken belief that the order was still subsisting, the person so liable or his or her personal representatives shall not be entitled to bring proceedings in respect of a cause of action arising out of the circumstances mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b) against the person entitled to payments under the order or her or his personal representatives, but may instead make an application against that person or her or his personal representatives under this section.

(2) On an application under this section the court may order the respondent to pay to the applicant a sum equal to the amount of the payments made in respect of the period mentioned in subsection (1)(b) or, if it appears to the court that it would be unjust to make that order, it may either order the respondent to pay to the applicant such lesser sum as it thinks fit or dismiss the application.

(3) An application under this section may be made in proceedings in the Supreme Court or a magistrates' court for leave to enforce, or the enforcement of, payment of arrears under the order in question, but when not made in such proceedings shall be made to a magistrates' court; and accordingly references in this section to the court are references to the Supreme Court or the magistrates' court, as the circumstances require.

(4) An order under this section for the payment of any sum may provide for the payment of that sum by instalments of such amount as may be specified in the order.

(5) The designated officer for a magistrates' court to whom any payments under a payments order are required to be made, and the collecting officer under an attachment of earnings order made to secure payments under a payments order, shall not be liable in the case of—

- (a) the designated officer, for any act done by him in pursuance of the payments order after the date on which that order ceased to have effect by reason of the remarriage of the person entitled to payments under it; and
- (b) the collecting officer, for any act done by him after that date in accordance with any enactment or rule of court specifying how payments made to him in compliance with the attachment of earnings order are to be dealt with,

if, the act was one which he would have been under a duty to do had the payments order not so ceased to have effect and the act was done before notice in writing of the fact that the person so entitled had remarried was given to him by or on behalf of that person, the person liable to make payments under the payments order or the personal representatives of either of those persons.

(6) In this section “collecting officer”, in relation to an attachment of earnings order, means the Registrar of the Supreme Court or the designated officer for a magistrates’ court to whom a person makes payments in compliance with the order.

Orders for repayment in certain cases of sums paid under certain orders.

43C.(1) Where on an application made under this section in relation to an order to which this section applies it appears to the court that by reason of—

- (a) a change in the circumstances of the person entitled to, or liable to make, payments under the order since the order was made; or
- (b) the changed circumstances resulting from the death of the person so liable, the amount received by the person entitled to payments under the order in respect of a period after those circumstances changed or after the death of the person liable to make payments under the order, as the case may be, exceeds the amount which the person so liable or his or her personal representatives should have been required to pay, the court may order the respondent to the application to pay to the applicant such sum, not exceeding the amount of the excess, as the court thinks just.

(2) This section applies to the following orders—

- (a) any order for maintenance pending suit and any interim order for maintenance;
- (b) any periodical payments order; and
- (c) any secured periodical payments order.

(3) An application under this section may be made by the person liable to make payments under an order to which this section applies or his or her personal representatives and may be made against the person entitled to payments under the order or her or his personal representatives.

(4) An application under this section may be made in proceedings in the Supreme Court or magistrates' court for—

- (a) the variation or discharge of the order to which this section applies; or
- (b) leave to enforce, or the enforcement of, the payment of arrears under that order;

but when not made in such proceedings shall be made to the magistrates' court, and accordingly references in this section to the court are references to the Supreme Court or a magistrates' court, as the circumstances require.

(5) The jurisdiction conferred on a magistrates' court by this section shall be exercisable notwithstanding that by reason of the amount claimed in the application the jurisdiction would not but for this subsection be exercisable by a magistrates' court.

(6) An order under this section for the payment of any sum may provide for the payment of that sum by instalments of such amount as may be specified in the order.

Consent orders for financial provision on property adjustment.

43D.(1) Notwithstanding anything in the preceding sections of this Part, on an application for a consent order for financial relief the court may, unless it has reason to think that there are other circumstances into which it ought to inquire, make an order in the terms agreed on the basis only of the prescribed information furnished with the application.

(2) Subsection (1) applies to an application for a consent order varying or discharging an order for financial relief as it applies to an application for an order for financial relief.

(3) In this section—

“consent order”, in relation to an application for an order, means an order in the terms applied for to which the respondent agrees;

“order for financial relief” means an order under any of sections 34, 35, 36 or 40; and “prescribed” means prescribed by rules of court.

Avoidance of transactions intended to prevent or reduce financial relief.

43E.(1) For the purposes of this section "financial relief" means relief under any of the provisions of sections 33, 34, 35, 40, 43A (except subsection(6)), and 46B and any reference in this section to defeating a person's claim for financial relief is a reference to preventing financial relief from being granted to that person, or to that person for the benefit of a child of the family, or reducing the amount of any financial relief which might be so granted, or frustrating or impeding the enforcement of any order which might be or has been made at his instance under any of those provisions.

(2) Where proceedings for financial relief are brought by one person against another, the court may, on the application of the first-mentioned person if it is satisfied—

- (a) that the other party to the proceedings is, with the intention of defeating the claim for financial relief, about to make any disposition or to transfer out of the jurisdiction or otherwise deal with any property, make such order as it thinks fit for restraining the other party from so doing or otherwise for protecting the claim;
- (b) that the other party has, with that intention, made a reviewable disposition and that if the disposition were set aside financial relief or different financial relief would be granted to the applicant, make an order setting aside the disposition; or
- (c) in a case where an order has been obtained under any of the provisions mentioned in subsection (1) by the applicant against the other party, that the other party has, with that intention, made a reviewable disposition, make an order setting aside the disposition; and an application for the purposes of paragraph (b) shall be made in the proceedings for the financial relief in question.

(3) Where the court makes an order under subsection (2)(b) or (c) setting aside a disposition it shall give such consequential directions as it thinks fit for giving effect to the order, including directions requiring the making of any payments or the disposal of any property.

(4) Any disposition made by the other party to the proceedings for financial relief in question (whether before or after the commencement of those proceedings) is a reviewable disposition for the purposes of subsection (2)(b) and (c) unless it was made for valuable consideration, other than marriage, to a person who, at the time of the disposition, acted in relation to it in good faith and without notice of any intention on the part of the other party to defeat the applicant's claim for financial relief.

(5) Where an application is made under this section with respect to a disposition which took place less than three years before the date of the application or with respect to a disposition or other dealing with property which is about to take place and the court is satisfied in a case falling within—

- (a) subsection (2)(a) or (b), that the disposition or other dealing would, apart from this section, have the consequence; or
- (b) within subsection (2)(c), that the disposition has had the consequence, of defeating the applicant's claim for financial relief, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is shown, that the person who disposed of or is about to dispose of or deal with the property did so or is about to do so, with the intention of defeating the applicant's claim for financial relief.

(6) In this section "disposition" does not include any provision contained in a will or codicil but, with that exception, includes any conveyance, assurance or gift of property of any description, whether made by an instrument or otherwise.

Extension of Married Women Act.

44.(1) Any right of a wife, under section 10 of the Married Woman Act to apply to the Chief Justice or the judge of the Court of First instance, in any question between husband and wife as to the title to or possession of property, shall include the right to make such an application where it is claimed by the wife that her husband has had in his possession or under his control—

- (a) money to which, or to a share of which, she was beneficially entitled (whether by reason that it represented the proceeds of property to which, or to an interest in which, she was beneficially entitled, or for any other reason); or

- (b) property (other than money) to which, or to an interest in which, she was beneficially entitled, and that either that money or other property has ceased to be in his possession or under his control or that she does not know whether it is still in his possession or under his control.

(2) Where, on an application made to the Chief Justice or the judge of the Court of First Instance under section 10 of the Married Women Act as extended by subsection) of this section, the Chief Justice or the judge is satisfied—

- (a) that the husband has had in his possession or under his control money or other property as mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section; and
- (b) that he has not made to the wife, in respect of that money or other property, such payment or disposition as would have been appropriate in the circumstances, the power to make orders under that section shall be extended in accordance with subsection (3) of this section.

(3) Where subsection (2) of this section applies, the power to make orders under the said section 10 shall include power for the Chief Justice or the judge to order the husband to pay to the wife—

- (a) in a case falling within paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section, such sum in respect of the money to which the application relates, or the wife's share thereof, as the case may be; or
- (b) in a case falling within paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, such sum in respect of the value of the property to which the application relates, or the wife's interest therein, as the case may be, as the Chief Justice or the judge may consider appropriate.

(4) Where on an application under the said section 10 as extended by this section it appears to the Chief Justice or the judge that there is any property which—

- (a) represents the whole or part of the money or property in question; and

- (b) is property in respect of which an order could have been made under that section if an application had been made by the wife thereunder in a question as to the title to or possession of that property, the Chief Justice or the judge (either in substitution for or in addition to the making of an order in accordance with subsection (3) of this section) may make any order under that section in respect of that property which he could have made on such an application as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of this subsection.

(5) Any power of the Chief Justice or the judge under the said section 10 to direct inquiries or give any other directions in relation to an application under that section shall be exercisable in relation to an application made under that section as extended by this section; and subsections (2) to (6) of that section (which relate to appeals and other matters) shall apply in relation to any order made under the said section 10 as extended by this section as they apply in relation to an order made under that section apart from this section.

(6) For the avoidance of doubt it is hereby declared that any power conferred by the said section 10 to make orders with respect to any property includes power to order a sale of the property.

Vesting of possession in tenancy.

45.(1) On pronouncing a decree nisi for divorce or nullity, or at any time thereafter, whether before or after the decree has been made absolute, or on or at any time after a decree for judicial separation, where either or both of the parties are in possession of a dwelling house as a tenant or tenants under any tenancy, the court may if it thinks fit by order—

- (a) vest in either party the right to possession of the dwellinghouse under the tenancy to the exclusion of the other party; and
- (b) require the other party to pay or to contribute, to such extent as the court may in the order specify, towards the payment of the rental under the tenancy.

(2) So long as an order remains in force under subsection (1) vesting in either party the right to possession of a dwellinghouse under a tenancy, the other party shall have no right by virtue of the tenancy to enter or be in possession of the dwellinghouse.

(3) Nothing in this section shall relieve any person of any liability as a tenant to his or her landlord.

*Inheritance.Power to bar applications under the Inheritance (Provision for Family, and Dependants) Act

46.(1) On granting a decree of divorce, a decree of nullity of marriage or a decree of judicial separation or at any time thereafter, the court may, if the court considers it just to do so and the parties to the marriage agree, order that either party to the marriage shall not be entitled on the death of the other party to apply for an order under section 4 of the Inheritance (Provision for Family and Dependants) Act.

(2) In the case of a decree of divorce or nullity of marriage an order may be made under subsection (1) before or after the decree is made absolute, but if it is made before the decree is made absolute it shall not take effect unless the decree is made absolute.

- (b) have been the subject of pension sharing between the parties to the marriage by virtue of any other statutory provisions or otherwise.

(5) A pension sharing order under this section may not be made in relation to the rights of a person under a pension arrangement if there is in force a requirement imposed by virtue of section 46F or 46G which relates to benefits or future benefits to which he is entitled under the pension arrangement.

Pension sharing orders: nullity of marriage.

46C.(1) On or after granting a decree of nullity of marriage (whether before or after the decree is made absolute), the court may, on an application made under this section, make one or more pension sharing orders in relation to the marriage.

(2) The court shall exercise its powers under this section, so far as is practicable, by making on one occasion all such provision as can be made by way of one or more pension sharing orders in relation to the marriage as it thinks fit.

(3) Where a pension sharing order is made under this section on or after the granting of a decree of nullity of marriage, the order is not to take effect unless the decree has been made absolute.

Pension sharing orders: duty to stay.

46E. No pension sharing order may be made so as to take effect before the end of such period after the making of the order as may be prescribed by Regulations made by the Minister with responsibility for finance.

Pensions.

46F.(1) The matters to which the court is to have regard under section 37(2) include—

- (a) in the case of paragraph (a), any benefits under a pension arrangement which a party to the marriage has or is likely to have; and
- (b) in the case of paragraph (h), any benefits under a pension arrangement which, by reason of the dissolution or annulment of the marriage, a party to the marriage will lose the chance of acquiring, and, accordingly, in relation to benefits under a pension arrangement, section 37(2)(a) shall have effect as if “in the foreseeable future” were omitted.

(2) The following provisions apply where, having regard to any benefits under a pension arrangement, the court determines to make an order under section 34.

(3) To the extent to which the order is made having regard to any benefits under a pension arrangement, the order may require the person responsible for the pension arrangement in question, if at any time any payment in respect of any benefits under the arrangement becomes due to the party with pension rights, to make a payment for the benefit of the other party.

(4) The order must express the amount of any payment required to be made by virtue of subsection (3) as a percentage of the payment which becomes due to the party with pension rights.

(5) Any such payment by the person responsible for the arrangement—

- (a) shall discharge so much of his liability to the party with pension rights as corresponds to the amount of the payment; and
- (b) shall be treated for all purposes as a payment made by the party with pension rights in or towards the discharge of his liability under the order.

(6) Where the party with pension rights has a right of commutation under the arrangement, the order may require him to exercise it to any extent; and this section applies to any payment due in consequence of commutation in pursuance of the order as it applies to other payments in respect of benefits under the arrangement.

(7) The power conferred by subsection (6) may not be exercised for the purpose of commuting a benefit payable to the party with pension rights to a benefit payable to the other party.

(8) The power conferred by subsection (3) or (6) may not be exercised in relation to a pension arrangement which—

- (a) is the subject of a pension sharing order in relation to the marriage; or

(9) In subsection (1), references to benefits under a pension arrangement include any benefits by way of pension, whether under a pension arrangement or not.

Pensions: lump sums.

46G.(1) The power of the court under section 34 to order a party to a marriage to pay a lump sum to the other party includes, where the benefits which the party with pension rights has or is likely to have under a pension arrangement include any lump sum payable in respect of his death, power to make any of the provisions under this section by the order.

(2) The court may—

- (a) if the person responsible for the pension arrangement in question has power to determine the person to whom the sum, or any part of it, is to be paid, require him to pay the whole or part of that sum, when it becomes due, to the other party;
- (b) if the party with pension rights has power to nominate the person to whom the sum, or any part of it, is to be paid, require the party with pension rights to nominate the other party in respect of the whole or part of that sum; and
- (c) in any other case, require the person responsible for the pension arrangement in question to pay the whole or part of that sum, when it becomes due, for the benefit of the other party instead of to the person to whom, apart from the order, it would be paid.

(3) Any payment by the person responsible for the arrangement under an order made under section 34 by virtue of this section shall discharge so much of his liability in respect of the party with pension rights as corresponds to the amount of the payment.

(4) The powers conferred by this section may not be exercised in relation to a pension arrangement which—

- (a) is the subject of a pension sharing order in relation to the marriage; or
- (b) has been the subject of pension sharing between the parties to the marriage by virtue of any other statutory provisions or otherwise.

Pensions: supplementary.

46H.(1) Where—

- (a) an order made under section 34 by virtue of section 46F or 46G imposes any requirement on the person responsible for a pension arrangement (“the first arrangement”) and the party with pension rights acquires rights under another pension arrangement (“the new arrangement”) which are derived (directly or indirectly) from the whole of his rights under the first arrangement; and
- (b) the person responsible for the new arrangement has been given notice in accordance with Regulations made by the Minister with responsibility for finance, the order shall have effect as if it had been made instead in respect of the person responsible for the new arrangement.

(2) The Minister with responsibility for finance may by Regulations—

- (a) in relation to any provision of section 46F or 46G which authorises the court making an order under section 34 to require the person responsible for a pension arrangement to make a payment for the benefit of the other party, make provision as to the person to whom, and the terms on which, the payment is to be made or prescribe the rights of the other party under the pension scheme;
- (b) make, in relation to payment under a mistaken belief as to the continuation in force of a provision included by virtue of section 46F or 46G in an order under section 34, provision about the rights or liabilities of the payer, the payee or the person to whom the payment was due;

- (c) require notices to be given in respect of changes of circumstances relevant to such orders which include provision made by virtue of sections 46F and 46G;

- (b) in accordance with guidance from time to time prepared by a person so prescribed.

(12) For the purposes of this Act or any Regulations made under this section, the implementation period for a pension credit is the period of 4 months beginning with the later of—

Child or children accepted as of the family.

48.(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, section 47 shall apply in relation to a child of one party to the marriage (including an illegitimate or adopted child) who has been accepted as one of the child of the family by the other party as it applies in relation to a child of both parties.

(2) In this section “adopted child” means a child adopted in pursuance of an adoption order made under the Adoption Act (Act. 1951 No. 19) or any other law.

Restrictions on decrees for dissolution, annulment or separation affecting children.

49.(1) In any proceedings for a decree of divorce or nullity of marriage, or a decree of judicial separation, the court shall consider whether there are any—

- (a) children of the family to whom this section applies; and
- (b) such children, whether (in the light of the arrangements which have been, or are proposed to be, made for their upbringing and welfare) it should exercise any of its powers under the Children Act 2009 with respect to any of them.

(2) Where, in any case to which this section applies, it appears to the court that—

- (a) the circumstances of the case require it, or are likely to require it, to exercise any of its powers under the Children Act 2009 with respect to any such child;
- (b) it is not in a position to exercise the power or those powers without giving further consideration to the case; and

- (c) there are exceptional circumstances which make it desirable in the interests of the child that the court should give a direction under this section, it may direct that the decree of divorce or nullity is not to be made absolute, or that the decree of judicial separation is not to be granted, until the court orders otherwise.

- (3) This section applies to—
 - (a) any child of the family who has not reached the age of sixteen at the date when the court considers the case in accordance with the requirements of this section; and
 - (b) any child of the family who has reached that age at that date and in relation to whom the court directs that this section shall apply.

Power to provide for children on dismissal of proceedings.

50.(1) Where proceedings instituted after the commencement of this Act in the court for divorce, nullity or judicial separation are dismissed at any stage after the beginning of the trial, the court may, either forthwith or within a reasonable period after the proceedings have been dismissed, make such provision with respect to residence, contact, maintenance and education of any child as could be made in the case of that child under section 40 or 42 of this Act, or under the Children Act 2009 if the proceedings were still before the court.

(2) Where an order has been made under subsection (1) of this section as respects a child, the court may from time to time make further provision with respect to his residence, contact, maintenance and education.

PART IX.—RECOGNITION OF DIVORCES AND LEGAL SEPARATIONS OBTAINED ELSEWHERE THAN IN GIBRALTAR.

Recognition in Gibraltar of divorces and legal separations, obtained elsewhere.

53. Section 54 to 56 shall have effect, subject to section 59, as respects the recognition in Gibraltar of the validity of divorces and legal separations which—

- (a) have been obtained by means of judicial or other proceedings in any country outside Gibraltar; and
- (b) are effective under the law of that country.

Grounds for recognition.

54.(1) The validity of a divorce or legal separation obtained in a country outside Gibraltar shall be recognized if, at the date of the institution of the proceedings in the country in which it was obtained—

- (a) either spouse was habitually resident in that country; or
- (b) either spouse was a national of that country.

(2) In relation to a country the law of which uses the concept of domicile as a ground of jurisdiction in matters of divorce or legal separation, subsection (1)(a) shall have effect as if the reference to habitual residence included a reference to domicile within the meaning of that law.

(3) In relation to a country comprising territories in which different systems of law are in force in matters of divorce or legal separation, the foregoing provisions of this section (except those relating to nationality) shall have effect as if each territory were a separate country.

Cross-proceedings and divorce following legal separations.

55.(1) Where there have been cross-proceedings, the validity of a divorce or legal separation obtained in a country outside Gibraltar either in the original proceedings or in the cross-proceedings shall be recognized if the requirements of section (1)(a) or (b) are satisfied in relation to the date of the institution either of the original proceedings or of the cross-proceedings.

(2) Where a legal separation the validity of which is entitled to recognition by virtue of the provisions of section 54 or of subsection (1) of this section is converted, in the country in which it was obtained, into a divorce, the validity of the divorce shall be recognized whether or not it would itself be entitled to recognition by virtue of those provisions.

Proof of facts relevant to recognition.

56.(1) For the purpose of deciding whether a divorce or legal separation obtained in a country outside Gibraltar is entitled to recognition by virtue of the foregoing provisions of this Act, any finding of fact made (whether expressly or by implication) in the proceedings by means of which the divorce or legal separation was obtained and on the basis of which jurisdiction was assumed in those proceedings shall—

- (a) if both spouses took part in the proceedings, be conclusive evidence of the fact found; and
- (b) in any other case, be sufficient proof of that fact unless the contrary is shown.

(2) In this section “finding of fact” includes a finding that either spouse was habitually resident or domiciled in, or a national of, the country in which the divorce or legal separation was obtained; and for the purposes of subsection (1) (a), a spouse who has appeared in judicial proceedings shall be treated as having taken part in them.

Existing common law and statutory rules.

57.(1) In this section “the common law rules” means the rules of law relating to the recognition of divorces or legal separations obtained in the country of the spouses' domicile or obtained elsewhere and recognized as valid in that country.

(2) In any circumstances in which the validity of a divorce or legal separation obtained in a country outside Gibraltar would be recognized by virtue only of the common law rules if either—

- (a) the spouses had at the material time both been domiciled in that country; or
- (b) the divorce or separation were recognized as valid under the law of the spouses' domicile, its validity shall also be recognized if subsection (3) is satisfied in relation to it.

(3) This subsection is satisfied in relation to a divorce or legal separation obtained in a country outside Gibraltar if either—

- (a) one of the spouses was at the material time domiciled in that country and the divorce or separation was recognized as valid under the law of the domicile of the other spouse; or
- (b) neither of the spouses having been domiciled in that country at the material time, the divorce or separation was recognized as valid under the law of the domicile of each of the spouses respectively.

(4) For any purpose of subsection (2) or (3) “the material time”, in relation to a divorce or legal separation, means the time of the institution of proceedings in the country in which it was obtained.

(5) Sections 53 to 56 are without prejudice to the recognition of the validity of divorces and legal separations obtained outside Gibraltar by virtue of the common law rules (as extended by this section) or of any enactment other than this Act: but, subject to this section, no divorce or legal separation so obtained shall be recognized as valid in Gibraltar except as provided by those sections.

Non-recognition of divorce by third country no bar to re-marriage.

58. Where the validity of a divorce obtained in any country is entitled to recognition by virtue of section; 23, 53 to 55 and 57(2) or by virtue of any rule or enactment preserved by section 57(5) neither spouse shall be precluded from re-marrying in Gibraltar on the ground that the validity of the divorce would not be recognized in any other country.

Exceptions from recognition.

59.(1) The validity of—

- (a) a decree of divorce or judicial separation granted under the law of Gibraltar; or
- (b) a divorce or legal separation obtained outside Gibraltar, shall not be recognized in Gibraltar if it was granted or obtained at a time when, according to the law of Gibraltar (including its rules of private international law and the provisions of this Act) there was no subsisting marriage between the parties.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of subsection (1), recognition by virtue of section 53 to 56 or 57(2) of this Act of any rule preserved by section 57(5) hereof of the validity of a divorce or legal separation obtained outside Gibraltar may be refused if, and only if—

- (a) it was obtained by one spouse—
 - (i) without such steps having been taken for giving notice of the proceedings to the other spouse as, having regard to the nature of the proceedings and all the circumstances, should reasonably have been taken; or
 - (ii) without the other spouse having been given (for any reason other than lack of notice) such opportunity to take part in the proceedings, as, having regard to the matters aforesaid, he should reasonably have been given; or

- (b) its recognition would manifestly be contrary to public policy.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall be construed as requiring the recognition of any findings of fault made in any proceedings for divorce or separation or of any maintenance, custody or other ancillary order made in any such proceedings.

Transitional.

60. The provisions of this Act relating to divorces and legal separations obtained outside Gibraltar apply to a divorce or legal separation obtained before the 1st day of November 1974 as well as to one obtained on or after that date and, in the case of a divorce or legal separation obtained before that date—

- (a) require, or, as the case may be, preclude, the recognition of its validity in relation to any time before that date as well as in relation to any subsequent time; but
- (b) do not affect any property rights to which any person became entitled before that date or apply where the question of the validity of the divorce or legal separation has been decided by the court in Gibraltar before that date.

PART X.—JURISDICTION, AND RECOGNITION AND ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS MADE IN A MEMBER STATE OF THE EUROPEAN UNION.

Jurisdiction, and recognition and enforcement of judgments made in a member state of the European Union.

60A. This Act shall have effect subject to—

- (a) Council Regulation (EC) No 2201/2003 of 27 November 2003 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility, repealing Regulation (EC) No 1347/2000 and to section 38A of the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Act 1993;
- (b) Deleted

PART XI.—RULES.

Rules.

61. The Chief Justice may make rules for the better carrying out of the purposes and provisions of this Act and in particular, but without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, may make rules—

- (a) as to all matters of procedure under this Act;
- (b) prescribing the forms to be used and fees to be paid in proceedings under this Act;
- (c) with regard to any matter as to which rules may be made under this Act.

SCHEDULE.

Section 8.

1. Interpretation.

(1) In this Schedule—

“another jurisdiction” means any country outside Gibraltar;

“matrimonial proceedings” means any proceedings so far as they are one or more of the five following kinds, namely proceedings for—

divorce;

judicial separation;

nullity of marriage;

a declaration as to the validity of a marriage of the petitioner; and a declaration as to the subsistence of such a marriage.

(2) References to the trial or first trial in any proceedings do not include references to the separate trial of an issue as to jurisdiction only.

(3) For purposes of this Schedule, proceedings in the court are continuing if they are pending and not stayed.

(4) Any reference in this Schedule to proceedings in another jurisdiction is to proceedings in a court of that jurisdiction, and to any other proceedings in that jurisdiction, which are of a description prescribed for the purposes of this paragraph; and provision may be made by rules of court as to when proceedings of any description in another jurisdiction are continuing for the purposes of this Schedule.

2. Duty to furnish particulars.

While matrimonial proceedings are pending in the court in respect of a marriage and the trial or first trial in those proceedings has not begun, it shall be the duty of any person who is a petitioner in the proceedings, or is a respondent and has in his answer included a prayer for relief to furnish, in such manner and to such persons and on such occasions as may be prescribed, such particulars as may be prescribed of any proceedings which—

(a) he knows to be continuing in another jurisdiction; and

- (b) are in respect of that marriage or capable of affecting its validity or subsistence.

3. Stay of proceedings.

(1) Where before the beginning of the trial or first trial in any matrimonial proceedings which are continuing in the court it appears to the court—

- (a) that any proceedings in respect of the marriage in question or capable of affecting its validity or subsistence, are continuing in another jurisdiction; and
- (b) that the balance of fairness (including convenience) as between the parties to the marriage is such that it is appropriate for the proceedings in that jurisdiction to be disposed of before further steps are taken in the proceedings so far as they consist of a particular kind of matrimonial proceedings, the court may then, if it thinks fit, order that the proceedings in the court be stayed or, as the case may be, that those proceedings be stayed so far as they consist of proceedings of that kind.

(2) In considering the balance of fairness and convenience for the purposes of sub-paragraph (1)(b) the court shall have regard to all factors appearing to be relevant, including the convenience of witnesses and any delay or expense which may result from the proceedings being stayed, or not being stayed.

(3) If, at any time after the beginning of the trial or first trial in any matrimonial proceedings which are pending in the court, the court declares by order that it is satisfied that a person has failed to perform the duty imposed on him in respect of the proceedings by paragraph 2, sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph shall have effect in relation to those proceedings and to the other proceedings by reference to which the declaration is made, as if the words “before the beginning of the trial or first trial” were omitted; but no action shall lie in respect of the failure of a person to perform such a duty.

4. Discharge of order staying proceedings.

Where an order staying any proceedings is in force in pursuance of paragraph 3 above, the court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of a party to the proceedings, discharge the order if it appears to the court that the other proceedings by reference to which the order was made are stayed or conducted, or that a party to those other proceedings has delayed unreasonably in prosecuting them.
