(9) In determining an appeal under this regulation the Minister shall have regard to the provisions of the Act and these Regulations and no appeal shall be allowed if the effect would be to permit or continue a registration in contravention of the Act or these Regulations.

(10) Where, as a result of an appeal under this regulation, a registration is permitted or continued, the liability of the owner or bareboat charterer, as the case may be, in respect of fees shall not exceed the liability which he would have had had his application for registration not been refused by the Maritime Administrator or had the Maritime Administrator not decided to terminate the registration, as the case may be.
